Noah Barnes grew up watching his hero, big brother Zeke, develop into an up-and-coming championship Heavyweight boxer. A tragic head injury leaves Zeke mentally impaired, and the big brother becomes the little brother, forcing Noah to resign from the police department so he can take care of Zeke. Noah opens a Detective Agency, and his gentle giant brother tags along as a show of force when necessary. Bored with matrimonial and insurance cases, Noah longs for the day when a real case will come along and offer him a challenge to his old police detective skills. His day comes when Dr. Anne Lynch, a beautiful veterinarian who owns an organic dairy farm in rural Pennsylvania calls him for help. Noah and Zeke drive out to Annes farm, where Zeke is instantly smitten with Annes dog Cody and the rest of her animals. Noah finds himself smitten as wellbut not with the farm animals. Anne is a widow, and a smart, witty woman who captivates Noah from their first meeting. Anne explains how Globalvision Energy has purchased the farm next door and has been fracking and deep-well drilling for natural gas. The DEP, the local Ag Board and her government ignore her tissue samples and medical opinions. Fracking is legal, and shes just out of luck. Desperate to save her farm, she hires...
